Council Discusses Additions To Youth Center & Firehouse

by Al Skolnik

A lengthy discussion on what Greenbelt youth wants took much of city council's attention at its May 20 meeting. The council had before it a report by the city's Park and Recreation Advisory Board (PRAB) which noted the absence of game-type activities in Greenbelt.

Two recommendations were made by PRAB: (1) investigate the possibility of leasing the basement of the Co-op supermarket; and (2) provide transportation on an interim basis to nearby game-type establishments. On the first point, city manager James Giese said that the space was being leased for a recreational facility which will include archery and bowling, assuming that the bowling equipment can be leased. On the second point, council said it needed additional information on such items as costs, number of participants, availability of bus, capacity of facilities, and degree of city responsibility.

Youth Center Addition

Giese stated that the capital improvement budget calls for an addition to the Youth Center, which would provide a variety of facilities, including a game room. He acknowledged that the present arrangement of having to share game room space with other uses is unsatisfactory. William Barber, Youth Council advisor, felt that the main need of teen-agers was for a separate building of their own, not an addition to the Youth Center, which would have to be shared with other groups.

Hugh Jascourt, PRAB chairman, minimized the extent of this need for separate identity by youth, stating that the national trend is to provide integrated facilities. He cited the shift in names from "Youth Center" to "Community Building."

There was general agreement that it might be desirable to shift adult activities, perhaps to other buildings, so as to assure more space for youth activities in the Youth Center. This still left the question of what would attract the youth. Youth Center attendance has been dropping off.

Giese said that youth programs

Residents Lose Suit On Charlestowne Tract

A group of Lakecrest residents lost their two-year battle against the developers of the Charlestowne Village tract on May 15 when Circuit Judge Roscoe H. Parker dismissed their suit.

The suit had charged the developers and their real estate agents with failing to keep promises that adjacent property would remain as parkland and that other nearby land would be developed at 7 units per acre. The plaintiffs alleged that they were induced to purchase their homes as the result of promises that were not intended to be kept. Monetary damages were asked. The original suit also asked the court to issue an injunction enjoining further construction on the Charlestowne tract, except in accordance with the promises.

In granting a motion for a directed verdict, Judge Parker said there was no showing of any fraud or intent to fraud and that there was no showing that the plaintiffs had suffered any damages.

The successful defendants in the suit were Charles and Fleur Bresler, Abraham Chasanow, Home Indemnity Company, and Charles Burton Builders, Inc. The plaintiffs were Louise Dennis, Virginia and Sigmund Schuldiner, Ide Roy and Barbara Lane, and Joseph and Priscilla Rosetti.

AREA 13-N MASTER PLAN READY

by Al Skolnik

City officials learned last week that the long-awaited Area 13-N Master Plan for College Park—Greenbelt has been completed and has been transmitted to the county commissioners for instructions as to the next legal steps to be taken. The Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission has been working on the revisions ever since the original plan was rejected in July 1965 by the county commissioners and returned to the planners for reduction in proposed densities.

Copies of the revised plan are not yet available. According to city manager James K. Giese, however, the revised plan is in accord with much of the city's recommendations with respect to the development of vacant land.

Townhouses for Parcel 15

The chief point of variance involves parcel 15 — the 32 acres south of Greenbelt Lake between the Capital Beltway and the Charlestowne Village tract. The city had favored retaining most of this land for single-family homes, but MNCPPC is recommending R-T (a recently adopted classification for townhouses, with density limited to 10 units per acre), with some land reserved for park.

MNCPPC is also recommending R-T for 3 small tracts, totaling 12 acres, in the northern part of town, some of which the city wants for single-family homes.

The reported MNCPPC decision on parcel 1 and 2 (the land between the GHI property and the Baltimore-Washington Parkway) agrees with the city recommendations for single-family homes northeast of the perimeter road and for townhouses southwest of the road. MNCPPC and the city are also in agreement on single-family homes for parcels 7 and 8, astride the entrance to the city at Kenilworth and Crescent.

The Springhill Lake property north of the Beltway and west of Kenilworth is being recommended for commercial office use, which is in accord with the April 15 decision of city council. At last Manday's meeting council had still before it a C-2 (general commercial) zoning request by the owners of Springhill Lake for a motel-convention center with shopping arcade and gasoline station.

The city and Springhill Lake representative are trying to reach agreement that would assure development as promised. City council directed the city manager and solicitor to review the latest plans submitted by Springhill Lake with the purpose of drawing up a list of conditions that would provide safeguards against undesirable development.

Office Towers on Jaeger Tract?

On another zoning matter, council last Monday deferred decision on a zoning application requesting a C-1 (local commercial) zoning for 16 acres of the Jaeger tract located on the east side of Kenilworth Ave. several hundred feet south of Greenbelt Road. The

Dates Set by Court On Two City Suits

The City of Greenbelt's case seeking a halt in the construction of 21 additional units on the 11-acre Parcel A tract (Charlestowne Village) is scheduled for a hearing on Wednesday, May 29, at 10 a.m. in the Circuit Court in Upper Marlboro. The city is seeking injunctive relief to enforce covenants which limit the density of the tract to 7 units per acre. In the meantime, work has started on the foundation.

Another city suit involving conveyance of 3.3 acres of the Parcel B tract (Charlestowne Village North) has been scheduled for a hearing on July 30. In both cases, the defendants are Charles and Fleur Bresler.

Poverty Marchers Registered, Welcomed by Local Churches

by Mary Smith & Elaine Skolnik

About 700 members of the Northeastern contingent of the Poor People's Campaign arrived in Greenbelt at about 12:30 p.m. last Friday and were welcomed by volunteer workers at two local churches. Approximately half went to St. Hugh's Catholic Church and half to the Community Church. The campaigners pulled into town on 25 buses, 15 cars and a truck, having spent the previous night in Baltimore, and stayed in Greenbelt about 7 hours.

The travelers had been expected and the detailed preparations, made at joint sessions of church representatives, worked without noticeable hitch. Lunch was ready in the church auditoriums and was served at once to shifts of 100 people at a time; meanwhile registration and issuance of an identification bracelet for each member of the group was begun. The weather cooperated, too, and after lunch many spent their time resting outdoors on the shady lawns and under awnings, or talking, playing badminton, baseball, cards, and singing.

Smooth and Efficient Operation

The operation at both churches was smooth and efficient. Those serving food and working in various capacities were enthusiastic in praise of their guests, and no confusion was reported. The guests spoke warmly about their hosts and it was apparent they were enjoying their hours in Greenbelt.

The lack of confusion was in the main due to the many marshals — older teen-age campaigners wearing blue denim jackets with their rank marked in red on the sleeve. They handled problems, guided, and helped members of their respective groups. City and county officials also worked, on and behind the scenes, to assure the comfort and safety of the marchers.

In charge of the contingent was the Reverend James Orange of Philadelphia, an official of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which is leading caravans of poor people from all parts of the country to Resurrection City near the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D. C. This particular group came from Boston, Philadelphia, New York, Wilmington, Connecticut and Baltimore.

Orange, a strapping, impressive man in blue overalls, said, "Morale is high; the people have stayed together and have been magnificent. Their only complaints are of lost baggage and not getting to bed early enough. Quite a few of the people are tired, some have walked about three miles each day. Some have been on the road since May 9th." He spoke of plans for teaching sessions, and workshops on the doctrine of non-violence. He said, "Some of the children have already learned more in these few days on the road than in all their lives so far."

Anxious to Get to Washington

It appeared that many of the delegation were disappointed when they were told to take their valises off the buses on arrival in Greenbelt. They thought their stay would be a short one here, and that they would board the buses for Washington the same day. Actually, most of them were to spend the next two days in the county, the guests of various churches. This was because of lack of accommodations in Resurrection City.

Some persons wanted to walk into Washington, and a few asked where the bus stops were. According to a later story in the Washington Post, at least 100 made their way downtown that evening.

The welcoming spirit in the churches was shown in hand-lettered posters on the walls, such as, "Please be at ease — you are among friends," and, "We will be praying for your safe journey." Each church provided a nursery for the young ones, with toys, playpens, diaper-changing table and cribs. First-aid stations were manned by doctors and nurses; about 85 people were seen who had minor ailments, and two were taken to the hospital, treated and released. A medical team worked through the night at St. Hugh's.

Students from the Holy Trinity Missionary Seminary of Silver Spring came to entertain the people in the St. Hugh's School Auditorium. The tables were turned when some talented young teens associated with the Poor Peoples Campaign put on a show. They were a real swinging group.

At St. Hugh's Church, about 50 women and 25 men worked as volunteers during the day and evening. They registered 350 people of all ages and served them 1600 sandwiches, 36 gallons of chicken soup, five cases of apples, seven lbs of coffee, 24 gallons of punch, and milk and cookies. Similar statistics prevailed at the Community Church.

Profile of the Marchers

The ages of those participating in the Poor People's Campaign ranged from the very young to those who were grandparents. The majority were Negro. There were

INCUMBENTS RETURNED TO BOARD; PROPOSALS ON BY-LAWS TABLED

by Al Skolnik

Incumbents had little difficulty in retaining their seats on the Greenbelt Homes, Inc., board of directors at last week's election, racking up between 71 and 77 percent of the votes. However, by-law changes proposed by the incumbent board had more difficulty as the membership tabled the proposals with a request that a nonboard committee be appointed to review them.

The top vote-gatherer was Steve Polaschik with 284 votes out of 371 votes cast, followed by Nat Shinderman with 274 votes and Katherine Keene with 262 votes. The fourth opening on the board went to newcomer Douglas Hawes, who garnered 233 votes. In fifth place was James Smith (4-H Southway) with 166 votes. A sixth candidate, Norman Charles, received 115 votes. Board members' terms are for two years.

The winning candidates now join the present five incumbents — Charles Schwan, John O'Reilly, Norman Weyel, James Smith (Greenhill Rd.), and Josephine Seay — to round out the 9-man board. The organization of the new board and election of officers will take place at the board's regularly scheduled meeting tonight.

Winners for the 3-man audit committee, elected for 1-year terms, were Thomas White (260), Janet James (247), and John Leslie (237). A fourth candidate — Roberta Lane — received 187 votes.

Elected at Wednesday night's meeting to the Nominations and Elections Committee, out of a field of 7 candidates, were George Adams, Darwin Beck, Andrew Fee-ney, Katherine Foster, and Jacqueline Shabe.

The 371 ballots cast were not as great as last year's total of 585, but otherwise were the highest number since 1964. One proxy vote was cast. There were also written votes for Cliff Simonson, Beck, and Mrs. Foster. There are about 1,500 eligible GHI voters.

By-law Controversy

A proposed by-law change authorizing the corporation to assess members for violation of parking regulations (not in excess of $15) triggered a preliminary discussion on the by-laws at the Wednesday night meeting. Opponents criticized the proposal as granting to

Letters to the Editor

Thanks

To the Editor:

Many thanks to you whose votes have returned me to the Board of Directors of GHI. I interpret your votes to mean that overall you approve of the way we have been doing our job during the past two years. This is quite heartening because the problems of the corporation are becoming more numerous, more complex and more pressing. Your endorsement is our reward.

We made no pledges before the election but do so now. We will continue to apply our most diligent efforts to promote the interests and welfare of all GHI members, collectively and individually, in the conduct of the Corporation's affairs.

My sincere appreciation to you all.

Nat Shinderman

Thanks

To the Editor:

I wish to thank those who re-elected me to the GHI Board of Directors. The last two years went by rapidly; I enjoyed them. Your confidence in me has been much appreciated, and I trust that it will continue to be justified.

Katherine Keene

'When Greenbelt Marched'

To the Editor:

It has disturbed me to hear some people in Greenbelt complain about the Poor People's March on Washington with remarks like, "Why don't they stay home" and worse. I think they should be reminded of a time, 20 years ago, when the people of Greenbelt marched on Washington. We didn't call ourselves poor people but we were all on "graded" rents in a subsidized Federal project and we had to move if our salaries rose too high.

We camped right on the Hill (couldn't all get in the hearing room), cheap lunches were served from the Co-op Pantry, and if we hadn't been successful in getting Congress to write into the law that Greenbelt could be sold to a non-profit cooperative of residents there are many in Greenbelt today who would be a lot less affluent than they are - and even more who couldn't have acquired the funds necessary to move to Montgomery County or Bel Air or elsewhere.

All that in a day when "marches" and "demonstrations" were practically unheard of, when the only people who came to Wash-

Fifth Anniversary At Springhill Lake

The Springhill Lake apartment development in Greenbelt is celebrating its fifth anniversary this month. Highlighting the occasion is a day of entertainment on Saturday, May 25, beginning at 3 p.m. Scheduled are a children's Sing-Along, The Piegari Puppets, dinner, fencing demonstration, music by Col. Carley and the Starliners and other events.

The Springhill Lake complex is composed of 2,800 units, an elementary school, shopping center, two large swimming pools, tennis courts, basketball and volley ball courts, and a community house. Future development includes additional garden apartments, golf course, and modern office building.

Am. Legion Poppy Drive

The American Legion Auxiliary Post #136 will hold their annual "Poppy Drive" on May 24 & 25. The Jr. Auxiliary members will be in the shopping center Friday night and Sat. The proceeds from the sale of poppies go to our handicapped veterans who also make the poppies. We ask your support of this worthy cause. Miss Debbie Costolo is this year's "Miss Poppy."

ington were the rich who have been getting their handouts out of all proportion to need since the Revolution.

I, personally, wish the poor people success in their venture. If we can pour 100 billion dollars and over 22,000 American lives down the rat-hole of Vietnam (to the great joy and advantage of Chinese and Russian communists!) we ought to be able to spare a fraction of that to right the evils in our own country.

Tour of GHI Homes

On Sunday, May 26 between 1 and 4 p.m. there will be a tour of GHI homes that have been remodeled or to which there have been additions. This will be an excellent opportunity to pick up new ideas if you are thinking of either remodeling or adding to your home.

A list of the homes to be visited can be picked up at the GHI Board Room, Hamilton Place on May 26 between 1 and 2:30 p.m. Any member interested in showing his home should call 474-5566 or 474-9226 to have his home added to the list.

keep changing in nature and that at present there seems to be some resistance to organized-type youth programs.

Councilman Dick Pilski expressed concern about the lack of activities for teen-age girls, noting that "if you attract the girls, the boys will follow."

Roadway closed

Council voted to close the road behind the Municipal Building on an experimental basis for 30 days. This is the road that connects the Center School with the west parking lot. Barricades will be erected in such a manner as to provide six additional parking spaces - three on each side of the barricade.

Firehouse Addition

Council voted to approve the construction of an addition to the firehouse, conditioned upon city approval of the architect, plans, contractor, and acceptance of work. Council also stipulated that the addition would become the property of the city and that all contracts must be reviewed and approved by the city attorney. The addition is to be built at the expense of the Fire Dept.

Special Tax District

Introduced for first reading was a proposed ordinance creating a special taxing district to provide for the improvement and maintenance of the mall, parking facilities, and street and area lighting. The ordinance would permit the levy of a special tax against the property in the Commercial Center for these services, annually as part of the budget ordinance. The businesses affected will be notified of a hearing on the ordinance.

Perimeter Road

Council is seeking a meeting with the county commissioners, school board, and State delegation in General Assembly to discuss the location of the perimeter road through the high school property. Council is awaiting word from Mrs. Spellman, chairman of the county commissioners.

Other Matters

Giese told council he is not recommending any changes in swimming pool rates for this year. Council, however, directed a change in regulations that would give city residents first priority for swimming lessons.

Action was deferred on a motion to prohibit dumping of trash by any non-city vehicle at the city sanitary landfill until Greenbelt Homes, Inc., the principal party affected, was notified in writing.

a few barefoot hippies, most of them white. Among the younger set, there was an under-fiver, Christopher was his name—who captured the hearts of all Greenbelters who watched over him. He'd look at you with a "Try and catch me" smile and then take off - with a Sister from St. Hugh's or a volunteer worker chasing after him.

Sitting on the grass in the late afternoon outside of St. Hugh's Grenoble Hall was a grandmother from Philadelphia, who said, "I'm here for the sake of my great-grandchildren." She told us that she had had no thought whatsoever of joining in the Poor People's Campaign, but came to an on-the-spot decision while watching the group at a rally in Independence Square in Philadelphia. "We must have decent housing, better educational facilities and equal opportunity for jobs - that's what it's all about," she said.

A community leader from New York City called the Poor People's Campaign "a new era of history" - one in which both whites and colored, young and old and those in different economic levels had become involved. She spoke warmly of a baby that had been born the night before - "he was named 'Uhuru,' the Swahili word for 'freedom.'"

Council Commends Reception

The City Council on Monday night commended City Manager James K. Giese for the manner in which the city performed while the marchers were in town. Council also praised the county's cooperative efforts with respect to public relations and policing activities. Pledits went to the pastors and representatives of St. Hugh's and Community Church for their cooperation in keeping the city fully informed of all proceedings.

Please!

In a reappraisal of our across-the-counter policies and practices it seems necessary to remind our members that this is a cooperative savings and loan association. Our hours and services are designed to be as convenient as possible to help you save but abuse of check-cashing and withdrawal privileges by some increases costs and confusion to the detriment of other members.

Members are asked to please try to limit withdrawals to no more than once each week. No withdrawal requests will be honored until the account card is returned to file after posting a previous withdrawal. Emergency situations will, of course, be recognized but we are being "dollarated to death" by people who are using us instead of pockets, planning or willpower.

Art Exhibit

The very popular exhibit of Chinese watercolors will be replaced in June so hurry down to the office to see the interesting display of scrolls and pictures that look so deceptively simple. Mrs. Tso, the artist, will produce copies of her work if one that you like is already sold or if you need two similar paintings for that particular spot in your home.

The innovation for June will be a display of photographs by member Raymond S. Faass, Jr. and Jon Eaton.

RAPIDAN CAMP

has produced a new little booklet giving complete information about the facilities, regulations, directions, membership, rates, reservations, etc. at this family-style cooperative camp in the Blue Ridge Mountains. Featured this year will be three special weekends for rockhounds, bird-watchers, and nature lovers - each under the special direction of camp members who are experts in these fields. Non-members are invited to participate. - the rates are ridiculously low. The booklets are available at Twin Pines - of course.

MEET BILL

Many members need no introduction to William (Bill) Morin, the new assistant at Twin Pines. He has been in Greenbelt for 24 of his 28 years, during the last four of which he has been carrying the mail "through sleet and snow and dark of night." Well, that's what the p.o. would have us believe!

Bill's mother, Mrs. Elsie Morin, lives at 3 G Eastway, and he is married to a local girl, Margaret (Peggy) Grant. They have two children: Andrew (4) and Sharon (1); and will be moving soon to Westway.

Former employment includes six years with GCS while attending the University of Maryland in accounting and business administration and La Salle Extension University in the field of law.

He is an active reservist at Andrews Air Force Base in naval aviation as an air crew member in an anti-submarine patrol squadron.

Bill now has his commission as a notary public so Twin Pines is again able to offer 9 to 9 free notary service to members.

SHARE INSURANCE?

President Harvey Geller, Supervisory Committee Chairman Dorothy White, Managers (past and present) Cassels and Bowman met with the membership committee of the Maryland Savings-Share Insurance Corporation on May 7th to explain the "complexities" of our operation. We wish we could tell you how we made out - in effect we were told "don't call us, we'll call you". The meeting was most amicable but it is hard to explain to members how a relatively small association such as ours can be so complex and complicated to others.

Board Meeting

The board of directors of Twin Pines will meet at the office Friday, May 24 at 8:30 p.m. Members are invited.

CAFMS

New word? No, that's where Acting Manager Bowman is going to be for two days in May - attending meetings of the Continental Association of Funeral and Memorial Societies near Cleveland. More than 100 memorial societies of Canada and the United States, covering a third of a million members, are affiliated with CAFMS which provides assistance to new societies, information, reciprocity of membership and service. Anomalous as it may seem, the board meetings of this association are among the most lively and entertaining.

New Members

A hearty welcome to these new members of Twin Pines: Karen Jones, Kent Miles Shepler, Kathy Marie & Timothy James Sines, Edward Devonshire III, Steven C. Bond, Hassell T. GHI ANNUAL MTTG. from p. 1 the corporation powers that properly belong to public municipal bodies. Fears were expressed that the assessments might be arbitrary in nature and that a member would not have protection of "due process of law."

Board member James Smith, chairman of the parking committee, explained that the board was constantly receiving complaints about parking violators and that the only action the board could take under present by-laws is to terminate the perpetual lease contract. This, added GHI president Charles Schwan, is like applying the death sentence for jaywalking.

Members of the audience, however, felt that there were other answers to the parking problem, such as providing additional parking space.

Later in the evening when the by-laws discussion resumed, it became evident that a sizable group of members felt that the board had not given sufficient prior explanation of the reasons for the changes. The climax came when charges were made from the floor by Bruce Bowman that the by-laws had been drafted "in secrecy" and were part of a "power grab" by the board. He moved that the by-laws be tabled.

Schwan vehemently denied the charges, stating that most of the by-law changes were of a technical nature designed to clarify and simplify the language. The board was defended strongly by Audit Committee chairman Thomas White, who demanded an apology from Bowman.

The membership voted to table the motions. Mat Amberg then moved that a nonboard committee be appointed to draft by-law changes, the substance of which was finally passed after much parliamentary maneuvering.

Recreation Review

Teen Club Chatter

Good support was shown by Teen Club members for last Saturday night's dance. Due to the teen group effort, more popular band shows will periodically be planned. The El Corols and company proved to be an entertaining band and announced that they would be willing to return at a later date. This, of course, will depend upon requests and support from teens.

Release of Chlorine Creates Emergency

The Fire Department was called in for assistance Monday night, May 20, when workers attempting to attach one of the tanks of chlorine gas at the municipal swimming pool were unable to fasten the seal tightly. As a safety precaution, on the advice of the Fire Department, the tank was opened and the gas released. It was expected that the gas would immediately disperse. Unfortunately, dispersal of the gas was a longer process than expected and some slight danger was feared to nearby crowds gathered at the carnival in the north parking lot. For this reason the carnival was closed down for a period of about 45 minutes.

One worker, pool manager Duff Marquardt, was overcome by gas. He was treated at Prince Georges General Hospital and released.

In commenting on the incident, City Manager James K. Giese noted that the city intends to study whether any further safety precautions than are now in force should be put into effect in operation of the chlorine equipment. He stated, however, that in any case there was very little danger since only small tanks — 150 lb. size — are used. Any danger from dispersal of gas would be confined to a very small area.

During the incident the city put into use its gas mask equipment, which was supplemented by oxygen tank equipment from the Fire Department. The police cars, whose siren equipment includes an outside loud speaker, were utilized to clear the areas near the pool where any possible danger existed.

Watering Advice For Gardeners

A "watering guide" to assist suburban Marylanders in the effective use of water for the care of trees, shrubs, gardens and grasses is being offered free on request by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission.

The single information sheet, which provides a chart on the frequency and methods of watering that can be expected to produce the best results for suburban gardeners, will be mailed on written request by the WSSC Public Information Office, 4017 Hamilton st., Hyattsville (20781), Md.

CARNIVAL TO PLAY THROUGH SAT.

The Gala Spring Carnival now being held in Greenbelt will continue until next Saturday night, May 25. The carnival opens at 6:30 p.m. nightly and at 4 p.m. on Saturday.

The Golden Agers, who are sponsoring this annual affair, ask for your support; receipts are down this year because of bad luck with the weather. Let's all go to the carnival and back up the senior citizens, who take the time and trouble to arrange this family fun affair.

Plans have been finalized for the Greenbelt Day Camp and Play School. Flyers are being sent to all area elementary schools giving information pertaining to cost, schedule, and activities. For further information, call the Recreation Department at 474-6878.

All teenagers who are interested in belonging to an organization for instruction and trips, on the subjects of hunting, fishing, fire arms, rods and reels, please indicate your interest by signing up at the Recreation Department, Monday thru Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. If enough interest is shown instruction and meetings can be organized.
